Dear Chief Commissioner

Thank you for the opportunity to make a further comment on this important issue.

Tasmanian Labor appreciated the opportunity to meet with your senior officers recently, to discuss the first consultation paper and draft code of conduct documentation.

We are hopeful that the examples, scenarios and questions raised by Labor MPs in that meeting will be considered by the Commission as the work on the draft code continues.

There is significant goodwill to see the establishment of a robust code that is meaningful and enforceable. That said, Tasmanian Labor retains the concerns outlined in our original submission that without stronger definitions, guidelines and significant work on implementation, the code risks losing its purpose with either too little or too much information recorded.

My team and I look forward to continuing to contribute to the development of the code as your work continues.

Yours sincerely
